Controversy on Police Chief Post Sparks Council Meeting

by Bernice Kastner

The city police department was the main topic under discussion at Monday's City Council meeting. The council heard two letters and eight petitions from citizens urging that Sgt. Austin Green be considered for the vacant post of Chief of Police. Councilman Canning pointed out that under the charter, council is forbidden to interfere in any way with appointments to any positions, and he moved to have the petitions forwarded to the co-addressee, City Manager McDonald, and the petitioners advised of this action and its reason. Councilman Phillips suggested that the City Charter be publicized, since there are apparently many citizens who are unaware of the division of responsibilities between the Council and the City Manager.

Councilman Champion read a job description for Police Chief prepared by the personnel board and the city manager, and he moved that it be approved. The job description called for a high school graduate with some further training at a Police School and a minimum of five years' experience. Councilman Phillips suggested that this position should be given further study by Council, and Councilman Goldfaden added that he felt McDonald should refer the job description for evaluation to the County Police Chief and the chiefs of one or two other municipalities. Champion pointed out that any delay in selecting a new police chief would add more duties to those of the city manager, already overburdened by the lack of a city clerk-purchasing agent and the breaking in of a new recreation director. He stated further that the personnel board had taken a year to study and make the job description, to which Councilman Canning agreed, stating that the board had presumably made a thorough study.

Propose Overall Review

Goldfaden expressed the opinion that this might be a good time to reevaluate the entire structure of the police department, giving consideration, among other things, to better opportunities for promotion within the ranks. Champion's motion to accept the job description was defeated by a 3-2 roll call vote, with Goldfaden, Phillips, and Mayor White casting the winning votes.

Goldfaden next moved that the job description be placed on the agenda for the next meeting, and that the City Manager refer the description to Chief Panagoulis of Prince Georges County, and to the chiefs of two other municipalities, such as Takoma Park and Hyattsville in the interim. This motion was carried 4-1. Champion then moved that the manager be authorized, if he deems it necessary, to appoint an acting chief of police from the present staff, pending study of the job description. This motion was defeated by a vote of 3-2, with Champion and Canning casting the losing votes. Pending the resolution of the question of appointing a new chief, the city manager will assume the duties of acting chief.

Complaint Heard

The council also heard a complaint from several citizens about lack of courtesy on the part of a police officer in connection with a group of boys who were congregating in the Center around 11:30 p.m. on Thursday night. The manager stated that the officer in question was doing his duty as he saw it, but it was agreed that he was overly abrupt in his manner of handling the case.

A report from the Recreation Advisory Committee was presented requesting (1) a playground in the Lakewood-Woodland Hills area, (2) a telephone at the swimming pool, (3) a mimeograph machine for the recreation department, (4) a safe for the Youth Center, (5) additional lighting on the road leading from the parking lot to the Youth Center, and on the path between St. Hugh's and the Youth Center, (6) resurfacing of the tennis courts. The report was accepted and referred to the manager for cost and time schedules.

The auditor's bill was presented and was almost $500 higher than anticipated. A member of the auditing firm will be invited to appear before Council to explain why the bill was so high.

Police News

Two juveniles, non-Greenbelters, were apprehended by D. C. police with a stolen car belonging to a resident of Greenbelt. The boys were caught in the act of attempting to remove the transmission. The incident occurred during the early morning hours and the owner of the auto had no knowledge of the theft until police informed him of its recovery. The boys were charged with auto larceny.

A resident on Parkway reported the theft of a piggy bank and an expensive ring, which was reportedly valued at $2000.

An eleven-year-old boy was caught shoplifting at the local High's store last Wednesday. The child was released to the care of his grandmother.

An employee of Tanners at the Beltway Plaza reported a breaking and entering sometime Wednesday night. The incident was reported to police on Thursday, following a check by the clerks on all the items in the store.

Six Greenbelt youths were brought to the police office last Friday for creating a disturbance at the Center. Their parents were called and the boys were released in their custody.

A diamond engagement ring, which was found in the woods near the Center last Monday, is being held for identification by its owner.

Vandalism to autos this past week included the breaking off of a rear-view mirror, radio antenna and both windshield wipers from a car parked in a garage on Ridge, the theft of a battery from another car, and the theft of a spare tire and wheel from a station wagon.

Awards at High Point High

Juniors and sophomores at High Point High School received their annual awards at an all-school assembly on Wednesday, June 13, 1962. The students were praised for their fine school record. Several Greenbelters were among those who received awards.

The Beltsville Junior Chamber of Commerce Award was given to Alice Goldberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Goldberg. Paul Stephen Lentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lentz, was commended by the American Society for Microbiology for his project in the science fair.

The Greenbelt American Legion Auxiliary is sending Jeanne Carriere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carriere, to Girls and Boys State during the summer. James Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grant, is being sent by the Greenbelt American Legion.

Point of View

by Dorothy Sucher

Greenbelt citizens may be surprised to learn that they have been breaking the law for years — every summer, to be exact. For on June 26, 1939, the Town Council passed an ordinance prohibiting the wearing of shorts and bathing apparel anywhere in the Center, except at the swimming pool. This ordinance has never been repealed.

The vote was 4-1, with Councilman Allen D. Morrison the sole dissenter. Morrison, still a Greenbelt resident, opposed the measure because he felt "that it could and would not be enforced."

He was correct. Summers were hot, then as now, and the law proved unpopular among the townspeople. In addition, residents from nearby communities, dressed for comfort, flocked to the pool and the theater, then the only such facilities for miles around. They patronized the stores in the Center, and virtually dared the harassed police force to arrest them.

Only one ticket has ever been issued in the 23 years the law has been on the books. The "criminal," a young lady, accepted a $5.00 fine, rather than go to court. A group of gallant gentlemen raised the money.

The "shorts ordinance" provided a field day for the Washington papers, many of which viewed Greenbelt (and its New Deal origins) with disfavor. Feature writers waxed humorous, while commentators pontificated on the totalitarian threat they detected in this monstrous regimentation.

For a time, the police contented themselves with tapping an "offender" on the shoulder and requesting discreetly that he leave the Center. However, in recent years the ordinance has not been enforced. "I give the police credit for ignoring it," commented ex-councilor Morrison. "If they hadn't, everyone in the country would have been mad at us."

Standards of conduct change with the passage of time. Surely our modern custom of dressing with a sensible regard for the weather is an improvement on the prudishness of bygone days. Even some of the councilmen who voted in favor of the original ordinance have subsequently appeared in the Center attired in Bermuda shorts. The "shorts ordinance" of 1939 has been honored more in the breach(es) than in the observance.

Community Church Endorses Proposal

At a special meeting called by the minister last Sunday morning, the membership of Greenbelt Community Church voted unanimously to cast its vote as a member of the Greenbelt Housing Association in favor of the Housing Program for the Elderly. Meeting immediately after the regular Sunday morning service, the congregation heard the request of the Rev. Kenneth B. Wyatt for instructions as to how he should vote on the forthcoming referendum. Though the Wyatts live in a GHI house, the unit is actually owned by the church.

YMCA CAMPS

The two resident camps of the Y.M.C.A. of the National Capital Area, Camp Letts and Camp Lichtman, will open eight-week seasons Saturday, June 23. Eight hundred boys between 8 and 16 years of age will camp for two weeks or longer in these Y camps. Registrations are still being accepted for both camps.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

June 18, 1962

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I understand that June has been proclaimed Charter Month in Greenbelt to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the issuance of the city's charter. Greenbelt has been an innovating force from its earliest days. Built as a Federal housing project, it was the only one of the three "green towns" to be sold to its residents. Today it continues to blaze trails in providing for open spaces, recreational resources and community planning. I am also pleased to note that Greenbelt consideration is being given to the construction of an elderly housing project. All these programs are among those the Government is seeking to promote at the community level.

I should like to congratulate the citizens of Greenbelt and to wish them continued success.

Sincerely,

(signed) JOHN F. KENNEDY

GHI Board Reaffirms Stand, 5-4; Favors Elderly Housing Project

by Al Skolnik

A poll of the board of directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., shows that five members support the corporation's proposed housing for the elderly project and four oppose it. The five in favor are GHI president Harry Zubkoff, vice-president Frank Lastner, Secretary Ed Burgoon, treasurer Henry Brautigam, and Ed Peters. The four opposed are Joe Comproni, William Helm, Allen Morrison, and Joseph Cherry.

The poll came about as the result of a motion by Comproni at last Thursday's board meeting that any fact sheet distributed to the members giving the previous board's reasons for supporting the project also contain the present board's sentiments. The election last May saw two incumbents defeated, one of whom favored the project while the other opposed it. The candidates who replaced them both opposed the project. The other two victorious candidates supported the project.

Board members Burgoon and Peters, absent from the meeting, were polled by telephone.

The ballots for the mail referendum on elderly housing are scheduled to be in the hands of the voters by the end of the month. Voters are asked to return the ballot within a week. Final procedures governing the referendum will be worked out by the nominations and elections committee.

Wrangling

The board spent two hours wrangling over the literature to be sent to the members in connection with the referendum. At the May 24 meeting, the full board decided to send out an official board statement presenting the facts on the housing proposal and the basis for the decision of the previous board to support the project. In addition, the board agreed to send out separate pro and con statements prepared by the two opposing sides.

The group opposing the elderly housing project, led by Comproni and Helm, reopened the question by arguing that this procedure, in effect, resulted in two pro statements as against one con statement. Zubkoff disagreed, pointing out that the official statement was merely a recitation of the history and facts regarding the previous board's decision. The pro sheet, however, would be an exhortation to members to vote in favor of the proposal, just as the con statement would urge members to vote against it.

Due to the absence of two of the members who favor the elderly housing project, the minority view of the opposition prevailed. The official statement from the board will now be combined with the "pro" sheet in one document, to be accompanied by a separate "con" sheet.

Committee Assignments

Other business included the naming of John O'Reilly, Comproni, and Helm to the finance committee, to be chaired by Brautigam. Peters, Cherry, and Zubkoff will serve on the GHI-City Coordinating Committee, together with GHI manager Paul Campbell. Lastner will head the Personnel Committee and Hans Jorgensen the landscape committee, with other members to be named later. Also in need of members are the land use, membership meeting, and standards and improvements committees.

Two new committees, dealing respectively with the sales department and the maintenance department, were also established by the board. While the duties of these committees have not yet been spelled out in detail, the board leans toward the view that they would study the operations of these departments with a view to determining their effectiveness and efficiency.

Two committees of a temporary nature were also formed. One was the rules and regulations committee, which would examine the present rules for consistency and simplicity and consolidate them into one document. The other, a by-laws committee, would subject the present by-laws to a similar scrutiny.

Complaint

The board heard a complaint from a resident regarding a flooding condition in his yard which he contended was caused by excessive watering of the grounds by one of his neighbors. Other neighbors joined in the complaint.

GHI Financial Statement

A first-quarter financial statement for 1962, prepared by GHI comptroller Roy Breashears, shows the housing corporation's income up about -1,900 over last year and expenditures up about $10,300. The result was a deficit for the quarter ended March 31, 1962, of $23,800 (before reserve allocation), compared with deficits of $15,300 in 1961 and $30,800 in 1960. Because of seasonal heating costs, the budget always shows a deficit in the first quarter of the year.

Among the major expenditure items that increased over last year were heating ($6,900), water ($1,900), and $3,600 in administrative and sales expenses, $822 of which represents the expense of opening and operating the branch office in the center. Offsetting these increases were declines in maintenance costs ($1,000), city and county taxes ($1,600), and interest ($900).

(Ed. note: from President John F. Kennedy to Mayor Francis White)

The letter reprinted below was received yesterday, just before the News Review went to press. We do not know precisely how the President became aware of the fact that the city council proclaimed June as Greenbelt Charter Month, but everyone knows that he is an inveterate newspaper reader, and the proclamation story did appear on the front page of the News Review)

A Time for Faith

Discussion of the current proposal before GHI to establish a 56-unit housing development for elderly citizens recalls striking parallels in earlier controversies.

In looking back over the 25-year history of Greenbelt, News Review staffers have been struck by the recurring themes of fear and faith in the forging of difficult decisions in our city. When a group of citizens first organized together, with the intention of forming a cooperative housing corporation to purchase most of Greenbelt's property from the federal government, the fears were loudly insistent. What if the units could not be sold? What if half the units lay vacant—what financial liability would those who had bought into the corporation incur? What if accepting responsibility for maintenance and upkeep meant also accepting responsibility for a host of unforeseen and insoluble problems?

Such concern with the "what-if's," with all the things that could possibly go wrong, is, of course, a necessary first-step in any consideration—whether by an individual, a group, a nation—of a new project or of a new way of doing things. But after careful inquiry has been conducted into the possible future effects of a proposed change, a new stage in the thinking process must begin when the decision is made to go ahead. Faith—the willingness to attempt the new—must supersede the fears. Those men who have dared to act with faith, to follow their dreams, who have not been dominated by their fears, have written the history of our country.

And in Greenbelt, when the corporation that is now GHI was forming, the fears lost out. Those with the faith and the vision won the right to attempt—to dare. That their faith was justified has been proved in the later history of Greenbelt.

At the present time Greenbelters are examining a proposal which may place them again among those who lead the nation. This is the proposed elderly housing project, a small-scale, pilot effort to demonstrate that a housing corporation like GHI can meet the special housing needs of its elder citizens. Those advocating the project feel that we owe to our elderly citizens, who have contributed greatly to our community, decent, adequate shelter during their later years. Basically the arguments of those opposing the project are "What-if's"—fear of financial exposure, fear of social problems arising from an elderly population, fear of forced racial integration. Each of these possibilities has been carefully examined by the past Board, by the management of the corporation, and by the special membership committee that studied the elderly housing proposal. Each has been specifically refuted, as the facts cited in an editorial in next week's issue of the News Review will show.

If the people in this city are once again to exert the kind of leadership that resulted in the creation of this first planned community and in the formation of one of the largest and most successful housing cooperatives in the nation, they must face up to the same challenge that they met before—that there is a time for faith.

Plan for Labor Day Parade

Plans are already under way for Greenbelt's annual labor day parade, to benefit the youth of Greenbelt. Sergeant Austin R. Green, parade chairman, announces plans for a bigger and better parade this year, in honor of Greenbelt's twenty-fifth anniversary. Greenbelt will have its first major general, Robert E. L. Eaton (United States Air Force, retired) as grand marshal of the parade. David L. Brigham, National Executive Committeeman of the American Legion, will be parade judge; George Seal, Department Executive Committeeman of the Disabled American Veterans, will be master of ceremonies for the day.

Anticipating more entries this year, Sergeant Green has announced that marching units will not stop before the judge's stand. It is hoped that this procedure will greatly increase the pace of the parade. Parade units will include the fire department, the police department, rescue squad, floats, old cars, military units, horse units, bicycles, tricycles, wagons, marching units, and drum and bugle corps.

Sergeant Green asks everyone who plans to participate in the parade to register with him as soon as possible. Call GR 4-5864 or 5454.

Pat was also runner-up to the champion in the two-baton division. In the last three or four months, Pat has competed in five different contests and won eight trophies and eight medals.

Congratulations to John Downs, 4-D Crescent, who received his M.A. in Urban Geography from the University of Maryland. His three oldest sons saw their daddy get his diploma.

Just in time to make our deadline—a 6 lb., 13 oz. young lady arrived on June 18 at Prince Georges Hospital. Her parents are Bill and Janet Helm, 21-J Ridge. She joins two older sisters, Emily, 4, and Paula, 1½, and a brother, Daniel, 2½.

An enterprising 17-year-old, Kathleen McGee, 7-D Hillside, will for the third summer offer art classes for children aged 4 to 7. Kathy, who has been studying at the Corcoran Gallery this year, will offer two classes each afternoon at her home.

High Point teacher Gerald Boisvert, 7-C Crescent, will be attending the University of Utah this summer on a National Science Foundation fellowship.

Congratulations to Myrna Chasanow, 56 Lakeside, who was sworn in recently as treasurer of High Point's student council for the coming year.

The senior Chasanows must be pleased as punch. Last week, Myrna's brother, Howard S. Chasanow, received the degree of LL.M. from Harvard University.

FLAMELESS MEANS CLEAN AND GENTLE

Fine lingerie, delicate blouses, doll clothes—all get the gentlest treatment from a Flameless Electric Automatic dryer. So do you. An Electric clothes dryer is easy on you, on your clothes, on your budget. Gone forever are the hours of hauling and hanging the wash. Gone are the stormy dashes to the back yard clothesline. Gone is the damp, clothes-cluttered basement. Your clothes dried by Electric-Clean air, come out sunshine-fresh, ready for ironing, or folding and putting away. Costs little to operate at PEPCO's low household rates.

Choose the model that best fits your needs from the selection on display at the Electric Institute, first floor, PEPCO building 10th and E Sts., N.W. Then purchase from your favorite appliance or department store.

When your house shoes keep running down (and you do, too!), you need a step-saving, time-saving extension phone!

In the kitchen, an extension phone lets you stay right in the mix of things while you take or make your calls. A handy wall extension is perfect here. Choose white, beige, yellow or pink.

In the bedroom, the lovely Princess extension phone adds charm as well as convenience. Compact. The dial lights up when you lift the receiver. Choose pink, white, beige, blue or turquoise.

In the family room, an extension saves steps, gives you security and privacy. This handsome extension neatly hugs table, desk or counter. Pick your extension in white, beige, green, pink or blue.

Bell Chime adds a tune-ful note to any telephone in your home. Calls you to the phone with a melodic chime, a crisp bell or the familiar ring. Surprisingly low cost. Comes in ivory or gold.

Order a low-cost extension and Bell Chime from your C & P Business Office or the man on the telephone truck
